

FP011 Large-scale Ecosystem-based Adaptation in the Gambia River Basin: Developing a climate resilient, natural resource based economy, Gambia

CSO comments on the project given as intervention during the 13th GCF Board Meeting, June 2016

- When properly implemented, it will respond to the needs of the community as climate change impacts on the resources of the country. Well-conceived but will need monitoring and implementation –in our view, this projects, as it is arguing with being paradigm shifting by implementing ecosystem-based adaptation to the large scale, provides a key testing ground for participatory monitoring approaches that M&A framework highlights and mandated – they should be strengthened and the Board should recommend that the project highlights participatory monitoring approaches and shares learning experiences throughout implementation through IE feedback.